

Coarse-product heat estimates remain imprecise across restrictions

All models use the prespecified NASA POWER heatwave definition and adjust for dewpoint, precipitation and wind. The diamond is the 228-stratum extended-cohort estimate; all intervals include one.